Abstract

Art historians and critics from Giorgio Vasari to the present day have debated the "failed" lost frescoes of the choir of the Medici parish church of San Lorenzo at Florence. To the contrary, they did not fail, but instead embodied in their design and form the meanings required by the audience for them. Only as the content of those meanings faded away did the frescoes lose their agency.

Dr. Elizabeth Pilliod is an authority on sixteenth-century Florentine painting, drawing and sculpture. She is the author of Pontormo, Bronzino, Allori: A Genealogy of Florentine Art, New Haven and London: Yale University Press, 2001; Italian Drawings. Florence, Siena, Modena, Bologna; Drawings in Swedish Public Collections 8, Stockholm: Nationalmuseum, 2002; and co-editor of Time and Place. Essays in the Geohistory of Art, Aldershot: Ashgate Press, 2005.

Her interests include the social history of the artist and the material culture of the Renaissance; performativity in sacred space; ornament and print culture; the patronage of the Medici and other Florentine families; historiography of art and Vasari's Vite; the impact of the Counter-Reformation on art and culture; and rethinking art through a global lens.

She has been a Fellow at Villa I Tatti, the Harvard Center for Italian Renaissance Studies in Florence and a NEH stipend recipient.

She contributed to the two 2010 exhibitions devoted to the Florentine artist Agnolo Bronzino (1503-1572) at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, Bronzino as Draftsman, and at the Fondazione Palazzo Strozzi, Soprintendenza PSAE, e il Polo Museale della città di Firenze, Florence, Italy, Bronzino. Artist and Poet.

Her most recent publications include Italian Master Drawings from the Princeton University Art Museum, New Haven and London, 2014, cat. nos. 29–31, pp. 73–78; "Vasari: The Territory Beyond," Giorgio Vasari and the Birth of the Museum, ed. Maia W. Gahtan, Farnham and Burlington, 2014, pp. 233–240; and "Cosimo I and the Arts," Florence, ed. Francis Ames-Lewis, Cambridge and New York: Cambridge University Press, 2012, pp. 330–373. Her monograph on the lost paintings of the sixteenth-century master Jacopo da Pontormo Pontormo at San Lorenzo: Revised and Re-imagined, is forthcoming.

International conference for doctoral students

CONTENT – FORM

Registration of participants: 8.00 – 8.40

Opening ceremony: 8.45 – 9.00 /lecture room P8/

Closing ceremony and main lecture: 16.00 /lecture room P8/

International conference “CONTENT – FORM” is intended for all Czech and international doctoral students on full-time or part-time study programmes in the fields of art history, theology, literature, music, and other cultural and historical disciplines. The aim of the conference is to enable students to present the results of their research so far, to introduce new and current insights based on their work on their dissertation, to compare their methodological approaches, and thus to support their research activities.

The conference is divided into six sections which are under the leadership of scholars of the Catholic Theological Faculty of the Charles University in Prague. We thank them for their support.

We also thank the dean of the Catholic Theological Faculty ThLic. P. Brož, Th.D. and the head of the Institute of Christian Art prof. PhDr. J. Kuthan, DrSc., Dr.h.c., who supported this conference.

Last but not least, we thank the vicedean for science doc. PhDr. M. Zlatohlávek, PhD. for the organization supported of the conference.

We wish fine day to all participants
