
Persons from the Trinity: Trinitarian Ontology and Personalism

Catholic Theological Faculty Charles University Department of Philosophy and Systematic Theology invites for a CONFERENCE
Persons from the Trinity: Trinitarian Ontology and Personalism
Date and venue: Wednesday the 26 th of April, 9:00 ROOM P5 Catholic Theological Faculty Charles University Thákurova 3, Praha 6, 1 st floor, lecture room P5
PROGRAMME

Wednesday
26.4.2023
9:00

ROOM
P5

CONFERENCE
Persons from the Trinity:
Trinitarian Ontology and Personalism

KATOLICKÁ TEOLOGICKÁ
FAKULTA
Univerzita Karlova

The personalism of the 20th century brought many impulses to the understanding of man as a person. Yet the question of what the term "person" means is still open and offers many different approaches. The Christian belief in the triune God brings a new view of the human person and of his essential characteristics. In this respect, the current of "trinitarian ontology", which views the reality of things and the human person in the light of the Trinitarian mystery, is particularly vivid. The international conference will offer papers by Czech and foreign scholars on the relationship of Trinitarian beliefs to anthropological questions from the perspective of philosophy, theology, political science and psychology. The main guest of the conference is the eminent English theologian John Milbank.

WHEN: Wednesday the 26th of April 9:00

WHERE: Thákurova 3, Praha 6, 1st floor, lecture room P5

ACCESSIBILITY: Free entry

LANGUAGE: English

ORGANIZERS: Researchers of the PRIMUS/21/HUM/021 project (Trinitarian Ontology of the Human person) at the Department of Philosophy and Systematic Theology

CONTACT: Pavel Frývaldský, ThD. (fryvaldsky@ktf.cuni.cz)